COMPOUND FLUID EXTRACT OF BEECH DROP. OR CANCER ROOT:

History of the Beech Drop, or Cancer Rost. THE BEECH DROP, OR CANCER ROOT, is figured and described by the celebrated Dr. Barton, in his Medial Botany A knowledge of its extraordinary medical virtues was first learned from the North American Indians, www.whom it was used for the treatment and cure of er, Rheumatism, Scrofula, and Consumption. The Fluid Extract of Orobanche is composed enirely of the products of the vegetable kingdom, so ombined as to possess in the greatest perfection the virtues and powers of an alterative and purifier of the blood. It is, therefore, applicable as a neverfailing remedy in Scrofula, whether suppurative or glandular, Chronic Rheumatism, Cancerous diseases in any form, especially cancerous diseases of the Uterus. In all complicated cases of Scrofula and syphilis, and in cases where the syphilitic virus of he parent causes a development of Syphilis or Scrofuls in the child, this is the only remedy upon which hope of recovery can be reasonably founded. It is useful in all scaly skin diseases, Ulcerated Bore Threat, White Bucking, diseases of the bone, and all cases of an ulcerous character. It is also articularly useful in Chronic and Nervous Comlaints, occurring in debilitated and cachetic constitution; in Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Chronic Enlarge ment of the Liver and Spleen, Dropsy, diseases of the

an impure state of the blood. The estimate that is accorded this preparation by he medical profession, and indeed by all competent o judge of its merits, may be seen in the fact, that is constantly prescribed by many of our most emient physicians, and that it has been presented to tudents as worthy of their especial attention. The following certificate is given from the very est authority—John R. Jones, late Assistant Clerk u the House of Representatives. His recovery is cusidered extraordinary. Most of the members of th Houses of Congress visited him at the St. harles Hotel, and expressed their astonishment at the wonders effected by the Compound Fluid Extract

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 29, 1853. For the benefit of the pubcic, and with none other than a desire to do good, I cheerfully state, that I was afflicted with a cough and bronchial affection. from July, 1852, to March, 1853, and during that time was almost constantly confined to my room, aboring under great debility and severe cough. I had medical skill of the highest order, through whose treatment, and under the guidance of a higher than mortal power, my life was prolonged til! March, 1853, when I commenced the use of Dr. Kidwell's Beech Drop, or Extract of Cancer Root. Since that period I have taken about six bottles of the medicine, and it gives me pleasure to state that it has effected an entire cure, with the exception of weakness, occasioned by long confinement to my room. I would advise all persons similarly afflicted The humbugs usually palmed upon the public in the shape of certificates favorable to the virtues of medicines, almost deter me from giving mine; but a sense of justice and humanity alone prompt me to

CHRONIC RHEUMATISM CURED! GEORGETOWN, Jan. 31, 1853. DEAR SIR: It is with a sense of gratitude, and a lesire that others suffering from disease may be inluced to use the Extract of Beech Drop, that I conent to give the following statement for publicity. lost 20 or 30 pounds of my usual weight. Anxious to find some relief, I resorted to the most approved stent medicines. I used a number of bottles of Cownsend's Sarsaparilla, and exhausted the list of Liniments, without any effect. My joints now became enlarged, and the pains in my limbs so excruciating, that they had to be rubbed two or three times a night. The muscles of my legs were so contracted that I presented the appearance of a man of ixty-five when I walked. In this condition, more through curiosity than a belief in its good effects, commenced the use of your Beech Drop, and in ten or twelve days the swelling about my joints had subsided; and now, after the use of three bottles, I am able to resume my business, and can walk with the same ease and comfort that I formerly did.

Yours truly, &c., ISAAO BARRETT, Second street, Georgetown. GEORGETOWN, February 1, 1854. MR. KIDWELL-SIR: A female member of my family. ged 14 years, had been affected with a painful Scro ecame almost intolerable. Fortunately for us, your fulous affection of the ear for 4 years, and although the best medical advice was had here and in Baltimore, still the disease increased and the pain often Beech Drop was recommended to be used, and I have successful. The Mucous Secretions has not made its ppearance for some months; the health of the tient has been quite restored; all the parts that were heretofore so much diseased have become sound and well, and I am much gratified in being able to state to you, that I regard it as having been accomplished entirely by the use of your Beech Drop. I am very respectfully, your obedient servant, GEORGE POR. Jr.,

To John L. Kidwell. Washington, D. C., December 12, 1853. John L. Kidwell: Dear Sir-This is to certify that y daughter, aged 2 years, was affected with Scrof la of a very aggravated form—the disease had so undermined her health, that life was entirely depared of. Hearing of the efficacious effects of your Seech Drop in such cases, I procured it, and after hat we persevered with it. When she had used ottles, her health was perfectly restored. Our eighbors and friends who saw her condition prior to using the Beech Drop, unite in attributing to your emedy the credit of her recovery. Very respectfully yours, WILLIAM R. McLEAN. To John L. CONGRESSIONAL BELLIGER LNCY. The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia North American says:

There has been no fatal duels among nembers of Congress since that between Mr. Cilley and Mr. Graves, in 1835. In 1842 occured a difficulty between Mr. Wise and Mr. Stanly, which would probably have produced a duel, but for the arrest of both parties and their being bound over to keep the peace. The next serious difficulty was between Mr. Yancı of Alabama, and Mr. Clingman, of North Carolina. Mr. Y. gave Mr. C. a per sonal affront during the discussion on the annexation of Texas, and when a pealed to for explanations, made th pointed reply, "explanations elsewhere." They were demanded elsewhere, and not being satisfactory, a meeting and exchange of shots took place, without dame age to either combatant.

The next affair was that between Mr. stanly and Mr. Inge, of Alabama. The latter gave the insult, refused to retract was challenged, and accepted. After an exchange of shots, without execution, the parties were "satisfied."

Probably the next affair in the order of time was the personal quarrel between Mr. Benton and Mr. Butler, in which after the "lie" was given with great acrimony of manner in the Senate, chal lenge was given, but the difficulty was adjusted by apologies and regrets.

During the excitement which ended with the Compromise of 150, two personal affairs arose which nearly approached a duel, and produced a pro found sensation. The first was that between Col. Bissell, of Illinois, and Col Jefferson Davis. Col. Bissell had made one of the most impressive speeches ever heard in the House on the sectional question, during which he denounced, with much severity, certain pretensions advanced in behalf of the Mississippi troops, in the battle of Buena Vista. Col. Davis then in the Senate, had commanded that rving Hotel, LOOKING GLASSES with or without regiment in the battle. He demanded a A correspondence ensued, which ended in a challenge and its acceptance. The weapons selected were muskets, and the fight would certainly have taken place. had not the parties and their friends very opportunely discovered that they were quarrelling about nothing at all.

In the spring of 1850, Mr. Duer, of N. York, said he believed Mr. Meade, o Virginia, was a disuniopist. "It is false," and "you are a liar," were immediately exchanged. A cnallenge, its acceptance, interposition of friends, retractions, and reconciliation naturally

I have omitted an occurrence between Mr. Clay and the late Vice President King, which produced at the time a wider and deeper sensation than any other of the same nature which led to no actual conflict. At the extra session of 1841, after the great triumph of the Presidential election, Mr. Clay saw that through the defection of Mr. Tyler, the fruits of triumph of the previous year were likely to be snatched from the hands of those who won it, and was somewhat less amiable than was habitual with him. In one of his least complaisant moods Mr. King had declared, in substance that F. P. Blair was as much entitled to confidence and respect as Mr. Clay himself. Mr. Clay indignantly denied it and, I think, pronounced the assertion false. Mr. King quietly remarked, "I have nothing to say," and sat down The next day a challenge was given, the challenger being fifty-eight and the challenged party sixty three years old. The advanced age of both parties should have been a guarantee against any really hostile intentions; but they were entertained, and the disagreement was arranged only with great difficulty. Such is a brief record of Congressional belligerency for the last thirteen years. It is obvious that, while the habit of quarrelling remains, the practice of fighting is going, or rather bas gone out of date. During that whole time, but two have ended in actual resort to the field. Nobody has been killed, nobody winged, nobody hurt. In short, the custom is aniquated, and has become outlawed, no less in manners of the age than in the statute of the land. The practice belongs to an age when personal prowess was essential to the success in the public service, and was a test of fitness for leadership. The age of chivalry has passed, and many incidents of the system are looked upon as ridiculous and barbarous, which, in their day, were proper and necessary.

In Gurowski's intelligent work on Russia. he gives no very flattering account of the financial resources of the Empire, which become more and more embarrassed, since not all the resources of the nation and of the soil are within the greedy grasp of the Imperial Treasury. Direct taxation is not known in Russia. The nobility cannot be directly taxed, neither can the soil nor the serfs. The latter pay only a small capitation tax of about a dollar a head, which income is destined to mainent provinces or governments, as they are called. But millions of this tax remain for years and years unpaid-and this arrearage increases and extends daily. The whole revenue of the Empire amounts to 125 and 130 millions of dollars. Of this amount nearly the half is yielded by the liquor monopoly; the custom houses give about 26 millions, from duties on exports, the crown domains about 34 millions .-Nearly two-thirds of the entire revenue is absorbed in the maintenance of the immense army. The remainder of the revenue, after deducting the arrearages of several departments, but principally of the crown domains, has to maintain the general administration, pay the interest of the public debt, support the large imperial family, and finally supply the expenditures of the Emperor upon his favorites and his lavish extravagance otherwise; for which his private personal income fails by many and many millions to suffice. The national debt is nearly $320,000,000. The yearly interest thereon is more than $20,000,000-a little more than six per cent on the whole. The war of Hungary contributed mighti-ly to drain the depleted treasury. This war, and all the military manifestations since, outrun considerably the current revenues - the real official resources of the government. In extraordinary cases, the government resorts to the Banks and their deposits.
